

COVID-19 | Best Practices for Partners

At Feed the Children, we're doing our part to help maintain the food security of our communities while ensuring their health and safety. As the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention continues to clarify best practices during this time of crisis, we're focused on the needs of our partners and the people we serve. We're incredibly grateful to you for wanting to support these efforts!

Feed the Children recommends drive-through and/or delivery options at this time. In addition, the following guidelines will help protect volunteers and the members of the community you serve:

IF YOU FEEL SICK, STAY AT HOME.

Maintain the distancing guidelines set by the CDC. People should remain six feet apart.

Wear a mask or other covering over your mouth and nose when working with others.

Provide access to hand sanitizer for all volunteers. If available, provide gloves.

When possible, wash your hands. Otherwise, avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth.

Cover all coughs and sneezes with the inside of your elbow or a tissue you throw away immediately.

For drive-through distributions, set stations well apart to limit the number of people in one area.

For home deliveries, leave boxes outside. Do not go inside. When possible, ask families where they would like their boxes to be placed.

These guidelines are current as of September 10, 2020. The Centers For Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) remains the best source of information about the COVID-19 pandemic. You can visit their website to learn more at www.cdc.gov.
